Nitin Khanna MD presents at Becker's SPINE REVIEW in Chicago

Chicago, IL, June 9, 2016 –

Becker's SPINE meeting in Chicago is a two day meeting with US and International Key Opinion Leaders discussing the future of Spine Surgery. Dr. Nitin Khanna presented his experience with the MAS PLIF procedure including data on the outpatient experience with this procedure. He also served on a panel with international surgeons for a discussion on the future of minimally invasive spine surgery. The conference is composed of surgeons, Pain management physicians, Hospital/Surgery Center Management, spinal device executives, and private equity. "I have spoken at this meeting for the last few year and feel very strongly that we are at an inflection point in spine care. All the shareholders realize that minimally invasive spine surgery is the future. We continue to make strides towards a more cost effective model with reproducible outcomes. Our data suggest we are very close to making this a reality. I look forward to continue presenting my clinical research that furthers patient satisfaction and outcomes." said Nitin Khanna MD, FAAOS, from Orthopedic Specialists of Northwest Indiana.
